- Higher Education Benefits for Military Personnel

David J. Renza is currently a Military Enrollment Representative at Post University.

Along with Lt. Col. Edmund J. Lizotte, Post University Director of Military Programs, Renza co-authored Military Education Benefits For College: A Comprehensive Guide for Military Members, Veterans, and Their Dependents. It provides military personnel and family members a step-by-step guide to navigating through the education journey and utilizing military benefits to the fullest extent possible. The book was published by Savas Beatie in 2010. Renza also currently writes a blog on military education benefits on WordPress entitled The Most Powerful Weapon. It can be found at www.militaryedbenefits.com/blog. As one of the university's VA Certifying Officials, Renza also evaluates military training records for college credit and assists students with the activation of their GI Bill and federal tuition assistance.

Renza is a U.S. Army veteran who served in the Connecticut Army National Guard for 12 years. As a combat medic, he was deployed to Bosnia and Herzegovina after September 11, 2001. He is a 3-time winner of the Army Achievement Medal and is a recipient of the Army Commendation Medal for his work as a retention NCO in 2003 with the 143rd Forward Support Battalion.

Renza holds a master's degree in education from the Neag School of Education at the University of Connecticut. Originally from New York, he now resides in Beacon Falls, Connecticut. He is a member of VFW Post 201 in Waterbury, Connecticut.
