

Post University Subject Matter Expert

Jay Murray

Director of Admissions

Areas of Expertise:

- Admissions Process
- Strategic Planning
- Enrollment Management and Marketing
- Financial Aid

As Post University's Director of Admissions, Jay Murray manages all aspects of the admissions process. A seasoned speaking professional, Murray has provided feedback and tips on applying for college, and financing a college education even in the wake of the Nation's recession. He is available to discuss enrollment management and marketing, the admissions process, strategic planning, and financial aid. Under his watch, Post University's main campus welcomed its largest freshman class ever in fall of 2010.

Prior to coming to Post University, Murray held Director of Admissions positions at both Marist and Mercy Colleges. He was a member of the Admissions team at Marist College for 10 years and was responsible for the development and execution of the complete undergraduate admissions operating plan. He also worked collaboratively with the financial aid office. In addition, Murray coordinated the multi-cultural admissions and recruitment efforts of Marist. While at Mercy College, Murray was responsible for the overall leadership of an admissions and processing staff spread over five campuses. Murray has presented at Annual Conferences for the New York State Association for College Admission Counseling (NYSACAC).

Murray received both his Bachelor and Masters degrees from Marist College.

For more information or to request an interview, please contact Ann Baldwin of Baldwin Media Marketing at 860-985-5621 or Kelly Statmore, Post University Director of Communications, at 203-910-7258, or kstatmore@post.edu.